

Indiana's Month of March

Hints of Spring a welcome overture
Ill manner winter still a discordant tune
Desires of warm beaches premature
Yet golf and pasture green seen soon

Robins return as buzzards soar lazy high
Evening frogs croaking lull one to sleep
Turtles on pond logs warming with sunny sky
Bees returning to hives pollen on feet

Welcome crocus and snowdrops emerge
Yards and creek bank come pallets of color
Then a winter snow covers like a dirge
Brightness of Jonquils suddenly become duller

Long legged calves and lambs pasture romp
Peeping chicks under heat lamps in feed stores
Ignoring all manner of circumstance and pomp
Of sudden winter weather afoot outdoors

Indoors Basketball reigns supreme
Cheering smiles reflect gladness
Rooting frantic for favorite team
Our seasonal dose of madness

March is an old friend's knock on your door
Farewell to Winter and "How are you" to Spring
Chill winds survived -- coming greening adored
Replacing Boots and coat piles with Spring's Bling
